

Relationship Tip of the Day

11-7-2013

Dear Fellow Citizens of the World

Please allow me today to share with you today information that will change your relationships with the opposite gender. If you reject this truth, you will suffer.

Men, women are not men.

Women, men are not women.

Yes, personalities do play a role in who we are and how we process life, but women do not think like men and men do not think like women.

You may not like this, but it is true. If you think it's not right and that the opposite gender should think and respond as you do, you are doomed to forever be frustrated.

Accept it.

No, I'm not saying being a man or a woman is an excuse for behaving like an idiot.

I'm not saying one's gender is the cause of everything that's wrong or right with us.

I'm just saying that we are not the same.

Instead of fighting or ignoring the differences, learn to celebrate them. Learn to benefit from the strengths of the opposite gender.

DON'T INSIST THAT SOMEONE THINK LIKE YOU.

It's just not reasonable.

I rest my case.

Understand this and you are on the road to better relationships with the opposite gender. Enjoy the journey,
